

Schwetye Architects Chooses Construction Communicator

St. Louis, MO and Fremont, CA – June 8, 2004 – Schwetye Architects of St. Louis has selected the Construction Communicator™ online-construction management service (www.constructioncommunicator.com) for its West County BMW project. The project is an 8100-sq.ft. service annex for one of St. Louis' premier dealerships.

Construction Communicator enables owners, contractors and architects to post and view Requests for Information (RFIs), submittals and change-order documentation; and allows owners, architects and project managers to view, coordinate and help resolve outstanding issues.

“The other online construction management services we looked at were either too complex or too expensive for our needs,” said Michael Byrd, senior project manager for Schwetye Architects. “Construction Communicator is extremely easy to use and very cost effective. We also like the fact that it is focused on the everyday communication that is so important to keeping projects on track.”
